which can be cured by a timely resort to this standard preparation, as has been proved by the hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors. It is acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most reliable preparation ever in-troduced for the relief and cure of all Lung complaints, and is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years. When resorted to in season it seldom fails to effect a speedy cure in the most severe cases of Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Asthma, Colds, Sore Throat, Pains or Sore-\ness in the Chest and Side. Liver Complaint, Bleeding Balsam does not dry up a

These celebrated Bitters are composed of choice Roots, Herbs, and Barks, among which are Gentian, Sarsaparilla, Wild Cherry, Dandelion, Juniper, and other berries, and are so prepared as to retain all their medicinal qualities. They invariably cure or greatly relieve the following complaints: Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Liver Complaint, Loss of Appetite, Headache, Bilious Attacks, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Ague, Cold Chills, Rheumatism, Summer Complaints, Piles, Kidney Diseases, Female Difficulties, Lassitude, Low Spirits, General Debility, and, in fact, everything caused by an impure state of the Blood or deranged condition of Stomach, Liver, or Kidneys. The aged find in the Quaker Bitters a gentle, soothing stimulant, so desirable in their declining years. No one can remain long unwell (unless afficted with an incurable disease) after taking a few bottles of the Quaker Bitters.

Dr. Tiffany, in the East Room of the Executive Mansion. The room was decorated with plants | admirable story will be flowers and evergreens. An arched floral platform was raised on the east side of the room, on which the ceremony took place. There were eight brides-maids, and Fred Grant was the only grooms-man. The brides-maids were Misses Barnes, Fish, Drexel, Dent, Porter, Conkling, Sherman and Frelinghuysen. The bride wore a white satin dress, elaborately trimmed with point lace. Her hair was adorned with orange blossoms. The ceremony was according to the Methodist Episcopal Church, and was performed under a beautiful floral bell; the President, Fred Grant and Miss Barnes being the only relations on the platform during the ceremony. Immense crowds were tumes. Vice-President Wilson, Speaker Gen. Sherman, Sir Edward Thornton and other prominent persons with their ladies, were among those present. The company then viewed the wedding presents, the Marine Band performing choice music. The presents were extremely elegant and costly, several being from members of the Cabinet, while President Gant's present was $10,000. After the wedding breakfast, the guests were presented with boxes of wedding cake. Mr. and Mrs. Sartoris left at 1.40 tor New York in a special train, which was decorated with flowers. The President and Mrs. Grant leave for New York, Friday, to take leave of the newly wedded couple on their embarkation, Saturday noon, for Europe. Mr. Sartoris is the only son of Mr. Edward Sartoris, of England, and is heir to a considerable estate. He is an engineer by profession, and is about twentythree years old. Miss Grant is in her nineteenth year. They sailed for England Saturday.

POVERTY IS BAD, -but the worst kind of poverty is poverty of the blood; this makes a man "poor indeed," for it takes away his strength, courage and energy: but enrich the blood with its vital element, Iron, by taking the Peruvian Syrup (a protoxide of iron), and you will feel rich and "as good as anybody." Success Based upon Merit.

It is a subject of general remark, among both wholesale and retail druggists, that no medicine introduced to the American public has ever gained such a popularity and met with so large a sale in all parts of the land, in the same length of time, as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This cannot depend upon its having been more largely advertised than any other medicine, as such is not the case. The correct explanation we think, is found in the fact that this medicine produces the most wonderful and perfect cures of very bad cases of Crockery bronchial, throat and lung diseases, is undoubtedly the most perfect and efficient remedy for all kinds of coughs that has ever been introduced to the public, and at the same time possesses the greatest of blood-purifying and strengthening properties that medical science has been able to produce, thus rendering it a sovereign remedy not only in the cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Hearseness and Coughs, but also for all diseases of the liver and blood as scrofulous diseases, blotches, rough skin, pimples, black specks and discolorations. It has therefore a wide range of application and usefulness, and it not only gives the most perfect satisfaction to all who use it, but far exceeds the expectations of the most sanguine, thus eliciting the loudest praise, and making permanent living advertis-ing mediums of all who use it. For these reasons it is that there is not perhaps a druggist in all the vast domain of this Continent, who tries to please his customers and supply their wants, that does not keep and sell large quantities of this most valuable medicine.

JESSUP, Iowa, May, 5th, 1873. Dr. R. V. PIERCE:

in saying that your Medicines have sold entirely beyond our expectations. We regard them as the best medicines extant, and hear them spoken of in the highest terms of praise.

"WE And Our NEIGHBORS"

is the latest and raciest work by Harriet Beecher Stowe,

Author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "The Minister's Wooing." "My Wife and I," and other powerful stories, each the literary sensation of its period; and this story promises a like genuine and wholesome sensation. It bears directly on social topics of interest, embracing the romance of youthful companionance movement of the day.

Mrs. STOWE is now in the prime of that geniu which wrote "Uncle Tom." ripened by years of study and observation. Her novels are immensely popular, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" alone out-selling by hundreds of thousands any edition of any original work ever published—save the Bible.— Her book two years ago, "My Wife and I," outnobling story as "We and Our Neighbors" should be read in every home. STITCH IN TIME SAVES NINE-(A) is an adage that holds good in almost all Chronic liseases. They are ushered in by a fixed pain in some part of the system, caused by some disturbance of the Electrical forces which cause life and health. Left alone, the result is constant suffering, and in the end DEATH. Electricity is an important agent to give tone to the vital functions, and to attack the principles which are the foundation of all disease, and remove them from the system.

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinpreparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of he Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of Vinegar Bitters?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of Vinegar Bitters in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs in Bilious Diseases

The properties of Dr. Walker's Vinegar Bitters are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

The Oratorio of Esther Was composed by Wm. B. Bradbury, who has endeared himself to the churches and Sabbath-schools of this county by his sacred music as no other composer has. In this Oratorio the theme is certainly a most happy choice. The incidents connected with the history of Queen Esther, are of thrilling interest, and the promin ent characters involved are fine for personation in music. Through the almost inspired gift of Mr. Bradbury, it becomes a magnificent production. I need not say that the music is of a very high order, and in fine variety, while the words, drawn largely from the Bible History, are in perfect adaptation. From the style of the music, the great variety of thrilling historic incidents to be protrayed, and the personations, in various and say that it cannot be properly presented to chards were in full bloom. the public by any ordinary talent, and without long and most patient preparation. I am very glad to see the anshould feel proud of the talent and enterprise which is adequate to this. Having recently seen the full programme,]

The buildings in general have a very solid and substantial appearance, and the citizens look as though they intended to live a good many years. Among the many objects of interest are the suspension bridge and Probasco's fountain. The bridge is 2,200 feet long and cost $1,-750,000. It spans the Ohio river, and is one of the finest bridges in the country. The fountain and its surroundings cost $125,000, and is a magnificent work of art. Why not be a News Agent?

To the man with a pratical turn of mind, who likes to improve an idle hour by thinking over the many ways by which folks manage to earn their bread and lots of other good and healthy things, positions loom up with remarkable frequency. But the pratical man does not guency. But the pratical man does not grant see a kindness done to a deafalways hit upon everything; he is not the only one to whom to appeal, and in our first enthusiasm we generally give him credit for too much. Nevertheless the pratical man is a valuable man, at least, so far as his example in overturning old prejudices and in contagion is what or how much they can do till they away so much daily bread. The means have tried. And trying, in a great many things, if it results in no good, neither rsults in any harm. And apropos of this, we are reminded of a little story.

A small boy was once engaged to work for an old gentleman to whose qualities of wealth and bachelorhood nature had added that of benevolence. The little fellow developed remarkable industry, and, withal, was bright and keen. One day it was very wet, but the little man didn't propose to lose a day on account of the dampness. So the old gentleman, riding through his grounds, surprised him at his task, and after sundry remarks, noticing that the boy's shoes were old and worn, asked him if he wouldn't like a new pair. The boy replied that he was not particularly concerned about them—they answered their present purpose well enough, and he did not care to complain.

"But," said the gentleman, "These holes let in water." "So they do," replied the little fellow, "but they let it out again."

To return, is there anything so terrible in the occupation as to prevent a deaf-mute from becoming a news agent? in the country? If there is, he will more of the old story—more of the complease send us his name, and give us an account of himself and his business. A news agency is a great blessing to any city, town, village or suburb. It is a paying business and a cash one, and the er, pay for it and are off.

The news agent will have lots of papers to deliver at the homes of his patrons and therein he should make his mark. He should be early and punctual, and satisfy every one, which for a news agent is generally easy to do. A man is vexed when he finds his morning paper has not come, and he doesn't like to wait half an hour for it. And if he gives an order for a book, some stationery or anything in the news agent's line, he wants it filled promptly. And promptness in business is a great thing, in a news agent it is very great.

There are some things too rough at first, but they are things that will be overcome by usuage. And when riches begin to accumulate, the deaf-mute news agent can take in a hearing partner, and through him do his hearing and talking.

Julia Brace and Laura Bridgman.

NEW YORK, MAY 10, 1874. MR EDITOR :- Having just returned from my farm, where I have been makovertaken by the train and although the ing garden, and admiring the frame of my new house, I eagerly looked over your paper of the 7th, which had arrived during my absence. With no little surprise I read the article copied from the Hartford Times, headed "Laura Bridgman." I say with surprise, for the first sentence or two showed that the writer was speaking, not of Laura Bridgman but of Julia Brace.

Laura Bridgman was never at the On the evening of the 7th inst., at the Asylum, at Hartford, except as a visitor. She was educated at the Perkins Institution for the Blind, in South Boston, ful progress in the acquisition of our discerning by a marvelously quick and diligent touch whatever was spelled on the fingers of others. Of several blind deaf-mutes who have been educated in language, her attainments were the most | CUSTOM WORK emarkable. In fact she was, considering her threefold privation, a miracle of intelligence. The doings and sayings of a crowned Queen were not more extensively published, or read with more eager curiosity than those of Laura Bridgman 20 to 30 years since.

Julia Brace was fifteen or twenty years older than Laura, and was a native of Hartford, or of the suburb of West Hartford, in which the Asylum was located. Like Laura, she was not born blind, but lost both sight and hearing by disease in childhood. It is said that shortly after her long night set in, she said to her attendant, "why do not you light a lamp, it will never be day." She soon, of course, forgot how to talk, when she could neither see nor hear any answer. She was placed in the American Asylum about fifty years ago, and there I saw her forty-one years ago, when she vas about eighteen. The attempt was made by Laurent Clerc, I believe, to teach her words by the sense of touch, but failed, * and her only mode of comnunication was by signs.

By this language she could make known her wants and wishes, and exchange items of intelligence regarding mutual acquaintances. When, one day, Laura Bridgman came to Hartford, as she expressed it "to see the deaf and lumb folks," the two blind deaf-mutes became quite attached to each other, and it was decided to send Julia to East Boston, to see if Dr. Howe's system, discarding all signs but those we all make for emphasis or clearness of indication, and teaching by constant repetition of words and phrases by the manual alphabet, and so wonderfully successful in he cause of Laura, would work a new miracle for Julia. But partly on account hension, her strong retentive memory for words, and her mental habit of spellfailure in Julia's case, and she returned to Hartford to go groping through life by the aid of her signs. Julia's case attracted a very wide spread interest before the more remarkale case of Laura threw her into the shade. For many years she was supported by contributions dropped into a oox in the hall by visitors to the Asylum. A charitable lady, Mrs. Martha Johannet, of Salem, (if I remember the name right) bequeathed an annuity to this thrice unfortunate girl, sufficient to support her in comparative comfort. I pre ume she is now in the care of her own relatives. The article from the Hartford Times, changing the name, probably gives a truthful account of her.

There is another strange blunder in he article in question. It makes the 'interesting daughter of Dr. Cogeswell' 'deaf, dumb and blind." Alice Cogswell, the first pupil of the American Asylum, and the child whose early pri vation of hearing interested the venerated T. H. Gallaudet in his youth, and led to the introduction of the art of deafmute instruction into America, was no more blind than the writer or reader is. She is represented, as a very intelligent, bright girl. She died not long after she left school, from the shock of her beloved father's death.

*Dr Peet told me one day that he thought Mr Clerc was too soon discouraged, that greater perseverance in a case where the results at first must be necessarily slow, might have given Julia a fair command of language.

Peddlars.

DEAR EDITOR :- The peddling business among deaf-mutes seems rather on the increase than on the decrease. Within but a short month four such rascally individuals have made their appearance among us, and their calling is any thing but worthy of charity. They are all able bodied and capable of entering upon some honest and respectable occupation. But they belong to that lazy set of itinerant sluggards. The last one, who came in but a week ago, was brought up and educated on the sacred soil of Suckerdom, and he is selling blacking to our boot blacks at tor, the Rev. W. W. Battershall, entered half a dime per box, and we will add that the sanctuary, and I presented them for confirmation, and the Bishop made an is the greatest absurdity ever yet known address which I interpreted.
